SCHOOL GIRL DIES FROM EATING CANDY

New York, Dec. 12.—Anna Tanenbaum, a 14-year-old Harlem school girl, is dying in an uptown hospital as the result of eating too much Christmas candy. She was taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition and all the efforts of the physicians have been futile to revive her. Her coma resulted, the surgeons say, from eating several pounds of gaudy Christmas candy from the counter of a department where she had found employment during the holidays. She was munching a piece of the candy in the store on Saturday when she suddenly fell to the floor in convulsions, which ended only when she lapsed into unconsciousness.

The police have been ordered by the coroner's office to investigate the circumstances of her condition and obtain for analysis samples of the candy which made her ill.

OGDEN LEADS DISEASE IS BUSINESS ACTIVITY NOW BEING REDUCED

Judge H. H. Henderson has returned from a trip through Idaho, and he says Ogden is ahead of all the cities he visited while away. There is more business activity in Ogden, he says, and a more substantial activity here than in any of the other places he visited.

In Boise, Mr. Henderson says, there is a great deal of building going on, and more large structures being put up than in Ogden, but he says the volume of business in that city does not begin to compare with Ogden.

"Inflation" is the word in Boise, as well as Salt Lake, says the judge, and in his opinion it will be a long time before Boise will need the buildings that are being constructed at this time.

"I really believe that Ogden is the most flourishing city in the entire western country, and that it is having the most substantial and reasonable growth of any other city of its size in the intermountain section."

"Traveling men from all over the country say this, and it must be true if the traveling men say so."

Mr. Henderson had legal matters to attend to in some of the cities of the Gem state.

ANOTHER WEEK OF PLEASURE IN THE PHOTOPLAY HOUSES

Nothing, not even the rain of the past few days, has stopped the good times from coming to town. Seemed as though the pictures couldn't be better than those shown last week, or even equalled, but the program in each house this week is right up to the standard. So good are they now it is hard to pick the feature.

To many thousands who saw the "Cowboy's Mother-in-Law," and remember the many funny situations will enjoy another Esanay western comedy in "Circle C" Ranch's Wedding Present. The plot of the story deals with a young eastern school man who goes west to impart learning to the cowboys of "Circle C" ranch. The picture tells the rest.

"A Plain Song." The power of filial devotion—Love thy father and thy mother. Adhere strictly to this injunction and the way will be clear. So many are the snares and pitfalls laid in the way of the youth that it is only through this agency that an escape is made. This Biograph subject is a most lucid illustration of this subject. "The Preacher's Wife," a Vitaphone drama in which the unyielding prejudice of self-instituted morals came near wrecking two lives. "A Four-footed Pest," a Vitaphone comedy, funny enough to make a horse laugh and the horse does laugh, for it is all about a horse and a very mischievous horse at that.

"The Maid of Niagara." A wonderful portrayal of the old legend of the Falls. There is not a white face in the picture. The scenes in this picture were actually taken at Niagara Falls and nothing more awe-inspiring has even been seen upon the screen than the sight of the Indian maiden in her canoe plunging over the Falls. There are many other excellent pictures to complete the program, including "A Daughter of the Mines," taken at the coal mining regions, Bankhead, B. C. "Arms and the Woman," another story of the rugged life of the western mining camps. "The Tie That Binds," an Esanay comedy-drama. "Elder Alden's Indian Bride," a story founded on a well authenticated, historic episode during the period of Puritan times.

A picture that will be of great interest to the boys is the Edison descriptive story, "Boy Scouts of America." In camp at Silver Bay, Lake George, N. Y. The interest in this picture lies not so much in what it shows, as in the underlying idea which it represents. At the end of the picture are shown the two gentlemen who are responsible for the Boy Scout movement in America, Ernest Thompson Seton and Dan Beard. In taking the picture the Edison company operated directly with the main organization in New York City and are showing it with their full approval.

The songs this week are all good and new music will be in each house. Ladies' Souvenir Matinee in the Orpheum and Globe theaters, Wednesday afternoon and Isis Thursday afternoon.

DISPUTE IS OVER A BRIDLE

Charles Muhs, a contractor charged with stealing a bridle from the barn of Iver Iverson, was arraigned in police court this morning and pleaded not guilty.

Iverson, on the witness stand, swore that Muhs had talked with him about the price to be paid for the article. Some time after this argument, Iverson said that he missed his bridle and later saw Muhs using it on his horse. Iverson and his son, a boy nine years old, swore that they had seen Muhs using the stolen saddle. They claimed that some changes had been made in its appearance.

Muhs took the stand in his own defense and stated that the piece of harness which the father and son had seen on his horse was not the bridle belonging to Iverson but one which he had purchased at the Alvord second-hand store.

I. T. Alvord was called to the stand and stated that Muhs had purchased a bridle from his store but, as the bridle in question was not in the court room, he would not say that the one sold to Muhs was the one which the Iversons claimed was stolen.

The case was continued until tomorrow and Muhs instructed by the court to bring the bridle while he has it in his possession into court.

Sanitary Officer Moroni Poulter states that there are still twenty-nine cases of scarlet fever in the city. This is a slight decrease over one month ago. While the sanitary department is making an heroic effort to eradicate the disease in Ogden, until now its efforts have been rather unsuccessful. It is now believed that the epidemic is more thoroughly under control than at any time since the first outbreak of the fever early in the fall.

There are under quarantine four cases of chicken pox and one case of diphtheria.

WORKING ON THE WATER MAIN

Superintendent Kircher of the waterworks department states that work of trenching for the West Ogden water main is progressing favorably. The force of 25 men having been replaced on the job this morning.

The storm of Friday and Saturday caused some delay in changing the flow of the water from the east to the west side of the channel, but everything is now propitious for rapid work.

The pipe will be laid across the river, three feet below the bed, within the next week, when connection with the main on Wall avenue and Twenty-fourth street will be made. This will necessitate tunneling under the Harriman freight depot building at Wall avenue and Twenty-fourth street, but Mr. Kircher states that it will not be a difficult task, and can easily be accomplished in a few days. It is possible, however, that the railroad company may give a right of way for the pipe line around the south end of the freight building and thus avoid the necessity of the city going under the depot.

Nearly 6,000 feet of 8-inch water main has been placed in the West Ogden extension, and it is said that there are 75 residences ready to connect with the system. The people of that vicinity are anxious to get the water into their houses, and also have a fire hydrant placed so that the homes may be given fire protection.

BURGLARS IN JOHNSON HOME

Gaining an entrance through the rear door by means of a skeleton key, burglars ransacked the home of W. H. Johnson, 275 Twenty-first street, at 8 o'clock last night and stole about 150 worth of valuables. At the time of the robbery the family were at church.

After entering the house, the thieves opened the drawers of all the bureaus and dressers in the house and succeeded in locating a gold watch, a pair of opera glasses and a gold locket.

Whether the robbers stole any clothing is not definitely known by the family, but it is not believed that any money was taken.

The burglary was telephoned to the police within a few hours of the occurrence, but no clew to the perpetrators or the crime has been discovered.

SUCCESS OF OPERA AT LOGAN

(Alonzo West.)

The Ogden High School Alumni Opera company, with their previous experience of the three Ogden performances standing them in good stead, journeyed to Logan Saturday night and to say that they scored a big success would be putting it mildly.

The large audience which greeted them, while somewhat cold at first, caught the spirit of the occasion when David Reese, the tenor, rising magnificently to his opportunity, sang his first solo with splendid effect, and following with the duet, "Past and Future," with Miss Belnap, as "Erminie." Both singers scored a distinct success.

Earl Pardee and Moroni Olson in the two thieves, made an instantaneous hit with the audience, both comedians getting all the fun possible out of their respective roles.

Mr. Pardee, in the role of Cadeaux, fairly outdid himself, the local parties and the use of encores for the "Dicky Bird" song being so well chosen and acted that they brought down the house and he received an ovation of college yells from the assembled A. C. students.

One of the hits of the evening worthy of mention was the lullaby song by Erminie and chorus, soloist and ensemble singing this exquisite number in a most finished manner. The chorus work throughout was most creditably done, the fresh young voices full of life and vigor, proving a pleasing contrast to those usually heard in road companies. Their work was warmly received at all times and added much to the success of the production.

The novelty song "Woman's Dress," by Miss Van Buskirk, "Marie," and twelve other charming young ladies, at the opening of act two, was pretty carried out and called forth several encores.

Mr. Reese completely won the audience with his brilliant singing at every opportunity afforded him and his fine work will be long remembered by the people of Logan.

Clara Peterson, as "Gavotte," Minnie Brown as "Cecile," Frances Van Buskirk, as "Marie," Florence Stevens as "Erminie," Jack Reeve as the "Chevalier De Brabazon," Charles Woods, as "Simon," Wilford Shurtliff as "Du Bois," Dr. G. W. Murphy as "De Launey," gave most commendable interpretations of the different roles.

The singing of Walter Stevens in the role of the Marquis, reflected much credit on his ability.

The consensus of opinion on all sides, heard after the performance, was one of warmest appreciation for the visit of the opera to Logan and such as to make Conductor Ballantyne feel extremely proud of their fine work.

The company returned home last evening, all pleased with their trip.

TONIGHT IS SOCIETY NIGHT AT THE ORPHEUM

BUILDING IS IN FULL SWING

The storm of the past few days having apparently cleared away, there was renewed activity in building circles this morning, and the structures in course of erection were busy scenes.

A little wet ground in some of the excavations for basements retarded work somewhat and occasioned some pretty hard pulls on the part of the horses engaged in the operations. Masons were on their jobs on the Hudson avenue buildings and the clink of the hammers indicated that the best possible use of good weather is being made.

Carpenters were also early at work placing stringers for floors, and the wood work in every direction on the buildings was commenced with a vim that means splendid results within the next few days.

The brick work on the Peery building on the corner of Hudson avenue and Twenty-fifth street is assuming definite form in the second story, and by tomorrow noon will be completed.

The third story of the Browning Brothers' building, which is to the north of the Peery block on Hudson avenue, is being built, the second floor of the structure having been placed. If the weather will permit, the contractors say it will not require many days' time to finish the brick work and place a covering upon the structure, after which the inside work may be done regardless of the weather conditions.

The J. P. O'Neill Construction company had a large force of men and teams excavating for the basement of the business block that is being erected by the Commercial National bank on Grant avenue immediately north of Twenty-fifth street. Mr. O'Neill says that if the rain does not further interfere for a few days the basement will be ready for the concrete men.

The O'Neill company has the contract for the construction of the basement of the new Weber club building on Twenty-fourth street between Grant and Washington avenues, and Mr. O'Neill says that his teams and men will be placed at work on that job as soon as nine feet of earth have been taken from the basement of the Grant avenue building.

Extra efforts are being made on other buildings in course of construction in the city, the purpose being to do as much as possible before freezing weather.

It is nearly Christmas time, but the contractors say there has not yet been enough frost to even make it difficult to break the crust of the earth in beginning excavation work. This is an unusual condition.

HUNTSVILLE TO REMAIN DRY TOWN

The county commissioners, at the regular weekly meeting held at the county court house this forenoon, decided that Huntsville shall continue to keep the "dry" on. The decision was caused by a petition from Hoken Olsen for a license to dispense intoxicating liquors in the mountain town, and a counter petition from Bishop John Halls and others that Hoken be not permitted to sell the beverage.

A number of residents of Huntsville signed Hoken's petition for a liquor license, but the counter petition presented by the Bishop contained the names of most of the taxpayers of the Getinet city. It was represented that a majority of the people of Huntsville are in favor of the continuing Huntsville as a dry town, even though they have some drunkenness to contend with under that regulation.

The commissioners stated that, in the face of the fact that most of the people of Huntsville desired to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors, they would unhesitatingly deny the petition of Mr. Olsen.

Bishop Halls suggested to the commissioners that a special deputy sheriff be appointed in Huntsville to quell the drunken rowdiness that prevails at times. He stated that there are a number of unruly young people in Huntsville who need attention when they are drinking and carousing. This matter was held for further consideration.

The request of the lessees of the Idlewild resort for a relative on their liquor license for the summer was denied.

The claim of William Wilson for $90, alleged rental for water used by the commissioners for sprinkling purposes, was continued and the clerk instructed to advise the county attorney that the commissioners desire another legal opinion on the question, the one heretofore submitted being too indefinite.

CATHOLIC AT HEAD OF COURT

Justice Edward Douglas White, the new chief justice of the supreme court, was, strictly speaking, the lone southern representative on the bench for several years.

Coming from a family of judges, his father and grandfather having been on the bench, Justice White has had a judicial inheritance as well as a legal training. His knowledge of the civil law is generally regarded as the most profound of any man who ever sat on the supreme bench. Of late years he has developed a specialty for questions on interstate commerce.

He was born in the parish of La Fourche, Louisiana, in November of 1845. His parents were Catholics and he himself professes that faith. His education was in Catholic institutions. In his early youth he attended school at Mt. St. Mary's, near Emmetsburg, Md.; later he entered the Jesuit college in New Orleans and finally he went to Georgetown college, Washington, D. C.

Justice White served in the Confederate army in the civil war, practiced law in Louisiana, became a sugar planter on its lowlands. His ability and high character were recognized by the people in repeated commissions as a public official. In 1873 he was elected as senator in the Louisiana legislature. Four years later he was appointed justice of the supreme court of the state and served until the new constitution went into effect in 1879, making all offices in the state vacant.

In 1891 Mr. White became a national figure. A senatorial contest was waged in Louisiana. Mr. White entered the race. He had made good the campaign of Governor Nichols for re-election and had been prominent in the reform element of his state. He had fought vigorously for the anti-suffrage movement. The legislature finally chose him to succeed Senator Eustis.

Justice White was in the senate three years before he was elevated to the supreme bench by President Cleveland in 1894. In that period he distinguished himself on two occasions. Once was in the debate on the anti-suffrage law, when Senator White made a profound legal argument against the constitutionality of the measure. Another occasion was the struggle over the repeal of the Sherman act, when he advocated the views President Cleveland entertained on the subject.

LOOKING FOR HOPE DIAMOND

New York, Dec. 12.—Customs agents here are keeping a careful watch for the famous Hope diamond, which is said to be on its way to this country. The government's scouts abroad recently advised the New York officials that the famous diamond has been cut into about a half dozen smaller stones, which the owners plan to market in this country.
